Elliott Inn Receives Project of the Year Award

FORT WORTH, Texas – The Elliott Inn of Phi Delta Phi at Texas Wesleyan School of Law was recently recognized with an award for the Project of the Year at the 59th General Convention in New Orleans.

The award was one of only two given to inns from the U.S., Mexico, Canada and Germany. Phi Delta Phi is the oldest legal organization in continuous existence in the United States and is patterned after the Inns of Court in England.

Named for faculty adviser Frank Elliott, the Texas Wesleyan Law chapter's award was presented for the two-day "Teddy Bear Immunity Drive." After purchasing a teddy bear and then taking it to class, students were immune from being called on by their professors.

Michael Huebner, magister of the local chapter, accepted the award on behalf of last year's board of directors at the New Orleans convention. Reflecting on the success of the project, Huebner said, "All you could see were teddy bears in Professor Rambo's constitutional law class."
